Tig's Tip....Always Wear A Properly Fit Helmet!

It is critical that your helmet fit properly, especially when wearing a head and neck restraint device. When your helmet is tethered by a head and neck restraint device, in impacts your helmet will stop. It is imperative that your head cannot move inside the helmet. A properly fit helmet fits so snug that you will feel on the verge of a headache. If you have experienced any facial bruising or injury, chances are your helmet is too big!!

Arai Sizing Chart

When buying a helmet it is important to ensure that you have measured your head correctly. Due to varying head shapes, heads that are the same size when measured by a tape may not necessarily fit the same size helmet. Please see our Arai Head Shape section to get more information.

It is important to measure the circumference of your head from above your ears, passing the tape measure over the center of your forehead, and over the natural bump that everyone has at the back of their head resulting in the largest possible measurement. If you have longer or shorter hair, there may be some tolerance either way. So if you prefer a tight fit, we recommend a smaller size and if you prefer a loose fit, go for the bigger size. Take several measurements to make sure you have the correct one.

The correct way to measure your head:

Note: After measuring your head you may find yourself between sizes on the Arai sizing chart – when this happens you should opt for the smaller helmet size, as the interior helmet padding will give way relatively quickly, and will ensure your head fits snugly.
